Fasset on Tammany.

The Republican nominee for governor in New York Senator J. Sloat Fasset is making a most remarkable campaign.

Since the first blow struck by the opposition to Tammany upon the same point, the necessity for the defeat of Tammany which proposes to control affairs in New York through its corrupt and thieving methods. The Democrats in that state have endeavored to draw the fire upon National issues. This Senator Fasset has steadfastly refused to accede to. At a meeting held in Brooklyn on the 28th he prodded Tammany mercilessly and referred to state issues by way of impressing their importance upon his hearers as follows:

The state issues are in this campaign sufficiently important to demand the exclusive attention of every citizen of the State.

Out of 1,000 points of conduct, State laws touch the citizens of the State in 900 cases where the national government touches him in one. State laws envelop each citizen of the State like an atmosphere. You have knowledge of the United States laws only as you have knowledge of the moon beyond the clouds. From the time you go to bed at night until you again return to rest there is not an act of your life that is not affected by State laws.

All the relations of employer and employee; all the questions of proper remuneration; all the relations between husband and wife, father and child and guardian and ward are regulated by State laws. You buy nothing, sell nothing, own nothing, inherit nothing save by State laws. Your children owe their legal status and relation to you to State laws.

Your wife is such in all her rights by virtue of State law. The business you conduct from day to day you are protected in by State law. The food you eat, the clothes you wear, the houses you dwell in, the streets you walk on, the sewers which drain or fail to drain all are regulated by the application or the failure to apply some State law.

The questions of transportation, of taxation, of ballot reform, of insurance, of bankers and banking, all the intricate interests that enter into and constitute the daily life of the most advanced and complicated civilization the world has ever known are regulated by the operations of State law.

Speaking of the World's Fair which the Democrats have dragged into the campaign, Mr. Fasset struck Tammany the following blow:

I have discovered that John G. Carlisle of Kentucky, Charles F. Olson of Georgia, McMillan of Tennessee, Curran of Kentucky, Williams and Pennington of West Virginia are to come here to tell you, the citizens of New York and Brooklyn, how you are to vote in a New York State election this week, and they are to tell you the reasons for their vote.

They have invited within our borders seven men, not one of whom voted to locate the World's Fair in New York. So much for the reason for the location of the World's Fair. But before we dismiss it let me ask you if it is a real issue? It is this fall why not for the next 200 years? We cannot bring it back.

BUSINESS IN COURT.

Master's Report in the Maroa Case Approved—Criminal Cases.

In the circuit court this forenoon Judge Vail heard the arguments of counsel in the Maroa case where J. H. Parker made an attempt to set aside the sale of the Maroa property, made by Master-in-Chancery Finn. The point at issue was the alleged failure of the Master to hear a bid offered by the agent of the plaintiff at the time the land was knocked off to Norris at $70 per acre. Parker claimed that just before the property was declared sold he offered $70.25 per acre; but the evidence was that the Master did not hear the bid, and did not know of it until too late. The court overruled the motion to set aside the sale, and the Master's report was approved.

W. T. Cassius, who represents Farwell & Co. of Chicago, has a claim of over $800 against the Butler & Dempsey stock, which was sold by Constable Midfield. Mr. Cassius was the first attorney to present a claim and get out an attachment, and this morning he made a motion in court which is likely to bring down all other attorneys upon him. He wants his claim paid in full on the ground of priority, and his motion was to that effect. Arguments on the motion will be fast and furious. There is not enough money in hand to pay all of the numerous claims in full, and it is being promised by order of the court. There will be music when Attorney Cassius attempts to convince the court that his motion should be allowed.

Hyde's Big Specialty Company. Next Thursday evening Nov. 5, one of the finest specialty companies that ever appeared in this city will hold the boards at the Grand. The Cincinnati Enquirer of Oct. 26, says: "The evening performance of the Hyde Specialty company at the People's Theater yesterday was the occasion of one of the largest gatherings ever assembled in this city. Long before the rise of the curtain the sign that gladdens the hearts of all theatrical managers, "Standing Room Only" had to be displayed in the balcony, and the house was so full that the manager had to even obtain that. The performance was one of the best ever given in this city, the company containing the best specialty talent in this country, including such people as James McKeen, Benj. F. Rosay, the Weston Brothers, Furo Fox, Sanders and Hurrell, and Miss Helen Morn, the wonderful harpist, rightly termed the modern Scythia, whose original character songs were the cause of long continued applause.
